

Get ahead, stand out from the crowd by entering the Institution of Agricultural Engineers and CNH Industrial student awards

Are you an undergraduate or a post graduate working on a dissertation/thesis that demonstrates innovation and practical application in the landbased industry, which includes agriculture and agrifood?

If so this award is calling for YOU and the prizes are £500 for a postgraduate project and £250 for an undergraduate, plus as an entrant it will look great on your CV and as a winner you get the chance to have a VIP trip to CNH Industrial's HQ in Basildon meeting the UK Plant Manager plus the opportunity of an internship or even an international internship for excellent candidates.

What to do next

Talk to your tutor/lecturer, get them enthused and engaged and ready to help you and get your entry back to us asap.

What happens next

Each nomination should be for a project you have completed at the end of your 2016/17 course.

The criteria is on our web site and you can follow this link for more details

A short list of submissions will be produced and those shortlisted may be required to meet with the IAgRE Awards panel to discuss their project. We will inform candidates asap if you are required to attend.

The awards will be presented at the IAgRE Awards ceremony in May 2018 where winning students and their parents/lecturers will be invited to attend.

So what are you waiting for why not take part – it might be the mega-opportunity you are looking for to catapult you towards a new career opportunity?

If you would like to talk more about it please contact Sarah McLeod at IAgRE contact 01234 750876 email: secretary@iagre.org
