

Minimising soil Compaction

Rubber Tracked Machinery

The Challenge

Increasing machinery and implement weights can result in high ground contact pressures with resultant soil damage particularly in unsuitable ground conditions.

The Solution

Replacing wheels with rubber tracks spreads the machine load over a much greater area and can give a higher level of tractive efficiency over a wider range of soil conditions.

