

Innovation in Food Engineering

Thursday, 10 December 2020

An IAgRE EFD event in partnership with the University of Nottingham

- 12.00 Welcome and Introduction (Daniel Hefft, Chair)
- 12.05 Food Engineering and Innovation Challenges in the UK (Seamus Higgins, University of Nottingham)
- 12.20 Innovation Projects in Food Science and Agritech at Sutton Bonington (Joanne Gould, University of Nottingham)
- 12.35 Get involved: KTN as a pathway to unlock innovation for SMEs (Rob Merrall) Merralls Consultancy Ltd
- 12.50 Funding support through KTP (Nicola Moules) University of Nottingham
- 13.05 Questions
- 13.20 Wrap up and Close (Daniel Hefft)

This event will provide businesses with an overview of the innovation opportunities in Food Engineering, Science and Agriculture. Businesses will learn about the funding available to collaborate with academic experts to address the challenges facing your business today and in the future.

The Institution of Agricultural Engineers

IAgRE – Supporting your professional life

Enhancing:

- professional networks
- professional standing
- professional knowledge

This is your chance to stand out from your peers and competitors

Registered Engineers & Environmentalists are at the forefront of meeting the world's most pressing challenges and ensuring society's continued well-being and prosperity

Achievement of CEng, IEng, EngTech or CEnv status recognises your expertise and hard work

University of Nottingham
UK | CHINA | MALAYSIA

